

While styling Kiara Advani's bikini shot in War 2, there was only one-word brief, recalls Anaita Shroff Adajania: 'Hot'

Kiara Advani has given a bikini shot for the first time in War 2. Stylist Anaita Shroff Adajania recalls Kiara was in great shape and totally free in her body during the shoot.

While anticipation was sky-high for a glimpse of Hrithik Roshan and NTR Jr.'s dynamic on-screen pairing in the War 2 teaser that dropped online yesterday, but what truly caught the internet off guard was Kiara Advani's debut in a bikini. Her confident walk along a poolside in a neon lime-green bikini sent social media into a frenzy, with fans and fashion enthusiasts alike praising her poise and physique. The scene, which is already making waves, marked a significant style moment in her career.

The look was curated by India's leading fashion stylist, Anaita Shroff Adajania, who reflecting on the process, said, "This was my first time styling Kiara for a film, and the brief was hot. I've styled swimsuits for many films before, and I've always approached them with a more casual mindset. To me, the real vibe I wanted for her was how we are as women on a beach: happy, relaxed, totally ourselves in a bikini, without overthinking how small or big it is. That kind of ease is beautiful."

The stylist emphasized authenticity over theatrics, urging Kiara to simply inhabit the moment. "Even while we were shooting the scene, I kept telling her to just own it, to be in her own space, doing her own thing, not performing some version of 'I'm in a swimsuit so I have to be sexy now'. I really believe it's so much cooler and far more sensual when you're just you," she added.

Praising Kiara's commitment, Anaita insisted that it was the actress's confidence and preparation that made the look so impactful. "Kiara really put in the work to give us exactly the look we were going for. I wanted her to feel so at ease that she didn't have to think about which way she was turning or what she was doing, just totally free in her body. And wow, did she deliver! That incredible body? All her. I just had the absolute pleasure of showing it off."

War 2 is the sixth installment in the YRF Spy Universe Produced by Aditya Chopra and directed by Ayan Mukerji, and is set to hit cinemas on August 14th.
